Here at Stellar we are making amazing progress toward our future goals of expanding campus resources for students and providing a more hands-on admissions process. With the start of our new imaging cohort we will be excited to announce new resources for students that will be provided on campus in the form of workshops, as well as our weekly orientations that will be held once a week to encourage enrollment. I have enjoyed my short time here so far being a part of so many new initiatives to better serve our students. We are excited for our fall start and to see our students more often on campus.

Marina Chudnovsky, M.Ed. (Stellar Career College Externship Director)

The medical field is one of the most demanding and responsible. It is also the most rewarding if the job is done well. It's also the most painful if someone fails patients and their families. We, at Stellar college, are thriving to prepare real professionals, and real front liners for hospitals, clinics, and private medical offices. We are building professional relationships with the heads of the Imaging departments at the hospitals and clinics to consult with them on the most urgent needs and expectations they have in their practices. We need such consultants within the medical field to be able to prepare highly qualified professionals and employ Stellar Career College graduates at prestigious medical institutions and we are doing our best.

But nothing can be accomplished without the student's desire to succeed, achieve, and thrive. Nothing can be accomplished if the students are not dedicated to their chosen field and don't exceed the expectations of the teachers, clinical training providers, and ultimately the patients and their families. But the job market is open for imaging professionals and employers are eager to get the best and the most dedicated.
